IT'S A VERY UNHEALTHY RELATIONSHIP... FOR MONTANA.

Steve Gibson just isn't that into you. He only has eyes for Big Oil.

Instead of fighting for Montana families, Gibson votes with the oil companies that help fund his campaign.

Take a look at the way Gibson's relationship with oil companies really works:

- ➡ Oil companies give money to Gibson.¹
- ➡ When the oil companies wanted a tax cut, Gibson voted to give it to them.²
- ➡ When the oil companies wanted to stop renewable energy jobs, Gibson voted with them.³
- ➡ When the oil companies wanted to raise energy bills for working families, Gibson voted with them.⁴

ONE CANDIDATE
WHO WILL FIGHT TO CREATE
NEW RENEWABLE ENERGY JOBS.

Mary Ann Dunwell for State House District 84

Mary Ann Dunwell FIGHTING FOR NEW JOBS RIGHT HERE IN MONTANA

As a public servant for many years, Mary Ann knows how to balance renewable-energy policies and create new jobs to protect Montana's precious natural resources.

It's already working. Montana's renewable-energy policies have resulted in more than $423 million dollars of investment and good jobs around the state.¹

That's why Mary Ann supports responsible implementation of Montana's renewable energy standard and will protect renewable energy laws and keep good jobs.

STEVE GIBSON VOTED AGAINST GOOD MONTANA JOBS

Instead of working to create new renewable-energy jobs, Gibson has repeatedly voted with out-of-state oil industry lobbyists to undermine Montana's renewable-energy laws, and has opposed tax credits to spur renewable-energy investments.

Steve Gibson keeps voting to move Montana backward

Steve Gibson — the wrong direction for Montana.
