Two candidates for the Montana Senate. Two very different voting records.

As a State Senator, Roy Brown carried a bill to reduce taxes for small businesses to create more jobs. Kendall Van Dyke voted No.¹

Roy Brown also supported tougher regulations on medical marijuana², and cutting red tape that has held up new energy development³. Kendall Van Dyke voted the exact opposite.

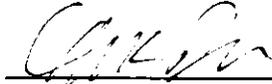

In fact, Van Dyke's only notable effort in the legislature was a new energy tax that would make it more expensive to fill your gas tank, and would kill jobs in Billings. That's something Roy Brown would never support.⁴

In this race for state senate, the difference is clear. Billings needs jobs and economic growth, not new taxes on energy and small businesses. Re-elect Senator Roy Brown, the clear choice for Billings.
