Hello, Rayelynn. The required attribution statute requires a paid for disclaimer, but you can request an exclusion from the requirement by sending a picture, which you have already done, and providing COPP with the quantity of the distribution along with how the "paid for disclaimer" would have read had there been an ability to place it on the item. I then acknowledge my agreement that it is too small and COPP posts the information you provided on our website. See MCA 13-35-225.

Consequently, you just need to send me an email making the request and providing the additional information (disclaimer and quantity). Based on the picture you provided I will approve the request and respond as such to your email.

Thank you. I hope that explanation was helpful.

Hello,

We are wanting to handout these key chains but don't have the paid for by on them so we wanted to make sure you had information about them.

Thank you,
