Subject: [EXTERNAL] Self-Reporting of Campaign Violation

Hi Jeff,

A while back I edited a bunch of my campaign website. Also recently I updated the paid for by section with a disclaimer I needed on the website in order to send campaign texts. Something that the texting company required on my website. Somehow, my party affiliation in the "Paid for By" section was left out or deleted. I also thought the named treasurer was there but it was not. Someone recently noticed and told me about the missing party affiliation. I am not sure how long it had been without that information but I believe I edited the website within the last month if it was not accidentally deleted when I updated that section for the text company.

Anyway, the website has been updated and my party affiliation has been added.

I am not sure if there is a formal way to "Self-Report" but this email is to serve as such. Let me know if I need to do anything further.

Thanks,

Jedediah Hinkle
