Dear Commissioner Motl,

I am writing to lodge a formal complaint against Representative Zach Brown for wanton and egregious violations of election law. First, you have already received in a previous complaint against Wilmer/Brown/College Democrats dated April 24th, 2014 with evidence of failure to comply with code stipulating that campaign materials must not be anonymous (§13-35-225). In addition to Mr. Brown's failed to properly identify campaign materials, I am also alleging that Mr. Brown has designated an illegal number of deputy treasurers (§13-37-202), coercion or undue influence of voters (§13-35-218), failure to properly disclose donors (§13-37-229), failure to properly disclose expenditures (§13-37-230), failure to dispose of surplus campaign funds (§13-37-240), misuse of campaign funds (§13-1-101(11a) provides definition of expenditure "for the purpose of influencing the results of an election.") and accepting contributions in excess of established limits (§13-37-216(5)).

Statement of Facts:

During the week of October 27th, 2014 I received postcard in the mail (original was lost, digital copy has been emailed to Mary Baker in your office) advertising a Get Out the Vote Event at the Eagles in downtown Bozeman on October 30th, 2014. I had previous experience booking the musician, so I attended the venue that night. I was surprised to find the entrance of the venue was run by persons passing out campaign flyers for then-candidate Zach Brown. (see attached Sample Flyer from Entrance of Eagles Event) After the event I decided to investigate further and mentioned to an acquaintance my disappointment of the political nature of the event when it wasn't advertised as such. This friend let me know that they also had people come to their Abnormal and Social Psychology classes on campus at MSU-Bozeman and advertised the event. Students in both classes were told this event was for the purpose of Get Out the Vote and urged to sign pledge cards that would serve as their admission to the event on October 30th.

Upon learning that I was not the only person who was deceived into attending a partisan event, I contacted Professor Elizabeth Russell, who taught both psychology courses in question Fall 2014. (see attached Email packet Russell email 10-31-14, 11-19-14, 11-19-14-2, 12-10-14) Professor Russell told me that she had been approached by students who wanted to use class time to encourage civic participation, but had not been told it was a partisan event. After some searching, she gave me contact information for Justin Ailport, one of the students who spoke to her classes. (It should be noted Mr. Ailport also serves as president of the College Democrats at MSU and is listed in campaign disclosures as paid staff for Mr. Brown) (I would also like to note that Ms. Russell names Forward Montana as one of the involved parties, although in contacting Forward Montana, they denied any involvement in any of these activities, and I have no evidence to suggest they were involved at all despite Ms. Russell's statement.)

I contacted Mr. Ailport via email to inquire as to why he deceived people in Ms. Russell's courses about the true nature of the Get Out the Vote event at the Eagles. Mr. Ailport CCed other parties involved in Mr. Brown's campaign to the email thread (see attached Email packet Ailport/Brown email thread 12-19-14 #1-9). Mr. Ailport told me that the event was paid for and ran by Mr. Brown's campaign, the Montana Democratic Legislative Campaign Committee and College Democrats at MSU (email #2). Mr. Ailport admitted he spoke to Ms. Russell's class (email #4) and that they passed out pledge cards that served as admission to the event. At this point Mr. Brown jumped into the conversation and admitted that he brought the campaign flyers to the event (email #6), but wanted to explain to me in person why they had no intention of being deceitful.

I then asked Mr. Brown how he could justify having a civic Get Out the Vote event when everything was paid for with campaign funds, and all the parties who threw the event had some direct tie to the Democrat party or Democratic party organizations. Mr. Brown told me that he thought these points to be hostile and he would not respond to them (email #8) but appreciated my feedback. He also added that everything his campaign produced included "Paid for by Friends of Zach Brown." When I presented to him the 2 blue flyers (now in your possession for separate complaint) that appeared on campus that were identical except for one missing the disclaimer (email #9), Mr. Brown stopped all contact and responses to my questions.

When Mr. Brown failed to respond to any more of my inquiries, I decided to take a deeper look into his campaign activities. One thing that should be noted at this point was that Mr. Brown has 3 times run for office that oversee public funds. His first run for House District 63 regards the complaint in question, but Mr. Brown has been removed from ballots twice before while running for office while attending University of Montana – Missoula. Once for failing to properly disclose campaign finances while running for ASUM Senate, and again for using taxpayer resources for using the UM mascot to campaign for him for ASUM president. (see attached Brown, Hagfors removed from ASUM ballot) I believe this shows a history of Mr. Brown's negligence in abiding by campaign rules and should be considered in determining appropriate punishment.

Mr. Brown's assertions that the event on October 30th, 2014 was exclusively for civic engagement do not hold water. According to campaign disclosures (see Financial Disclosure Packet marked C) venue rental and deposits were paid for out of campaign funds (§13-1-101 Definition of Expenditure). This is not the only expenditure Mr. Brown claims is for civic engagement. Mr. Ailport is also listed as paid staff at the same times he spoke to Ms. Russell's classes. Mr. Brown also lists expenditures for Avis Car Rental and Classic Limousine Service with campaign funds. By code, only funds used to influence an election should be listed as expenditures. Either Mr. Brown is misappropriating campaign funds or is being deceptive in his claims that he only meant for these actions to be for civic engagement.

Mr. Brown also has a myriad of finance disclosure and law violations in his reports. Mr. Brown still lists $1,588.77 in surplus campaign funds that were not disposed of properly (§13-37-240). Mr. Brown's campaign disclosures of contributions includes 59 separate instances in which contributors do not contain required information (see Finance Disclosure Packet contributors marked B are missing name/address/occupation/employer per §13-37-229). Mr. Brown lists 4 expenditures without required information (see Finance Disclosure Packet expenditures marked D missing required information per §13-37-230). Mr. Brown also accepts a contribution in excess of legal limits (in-kind contribution from Lynda Brown of $256.00 marked E in Finance Disclosure Packet). Mr. Brown also lists multiple deputy campaign treasurer which violates law allowing one deputy treasurer for county, since his district resides entirely in Gallatin County. (§13-37-202) I think it should also be investigated as to why all addresses listed for 3 campaign treasurers list as well as his campaign share one address, the same as the party who gave in-kind contributions in excess of legal limits.

I believe that Mr. Brown should also be found guilty of violating §13-35-218 which prohibits "undue influence" and "fraudulent contrivance" of voters for his role in using taxpayer resources via Montana State University class time. In seeking to use university sanctioned class time and promoting his events as civic engagement, I believe he chose to deceive voters by giving them the impression his activities were sanctioned by the university and groups encouraging them to attend his campaign paid for event had no interest in shaping their choice of candidates. I claim Mr. Brown also deceptively tried to specifically targeted voters and used campaign funds earmarked for influence of voters in an election for various expenses related to the event on October 30th, as well as activities that were labeled Get Out the Vote, but aimed at only those he believed would mobilize voters likely to vote for his candidacy, not all voters in general nor all voters in his district. It is beyond reasonable belief than an event paid for completely with campaign funds and staffed exclusively by Brown and Democratic entities was done exclusive for civic engagement and not to influence the election.

I urge you to act with extreme prejudice against Mr. Brown in this matter and hand out the harshest punishment available. While I understand your office is tasked with not punishing minor or isolated incidents harshly, taken as a whole Mr. Brown's history of being removed from ballots for election violations twice previously and his many and varied violations shows he has no regard for the rule of law and fair play among candidates.

In speaking with your office and researching this matter I was told that the campaign disclosures I'm providing are actually modified corrections after your employees had to reprimand Mr. Brown for improper disclosure in his initial filings. Therefore, the documents I'm enclosing are not the first time these violations have been brought to Mr. Brown's attention and he still has not found any interest in bringing himself into proper compliance. Despite his past assurances the facts show that Mr. Brown has no regard for the election laws of this state and it's unthinkable someone who won't abide by rules expected of all candidates is allowed to be making law for others. Please show the voters of Montana that wanton disregard for the laws of our state will not be tolerated.

I affirm all of the above to be true to the best of my knowledge:

Inquiry Regarding Invite to Students for Get Out the Vote Party

Professor Russell,

I was recently told by a friend that people in your Abnormal Psychology and Social Psychology classes were invited to a Get Out the Vote Party downtown that happened last night.

I wanted to know who the students were or what group did the invitations. Was this the entire Psychology department that allowed people to invite students or just your classes? What was your reasoning in allowing students/outside groups to use your class time to invite people to this event?

Thanks,

Tim Adams

Hello Mr. Adams,

I sincerely apologize for not getting back to you earlier. It's been a hectic semester, as always, and it honestly slipped my mind. I'm happy to answer your questions. This was a student group on campus that e-mailed me and asked if they could have a few seconds to announce in class that people need to get out and vote, and they assured me it would be non-partisan in nature (or I certainly wouldn't have condoned it). I did allow them to do so, mainly because they only asked for a couple of minutes. I didn't realize they were going to advertise any event and the event wasn't really the focus of their couple minutes of talking with the class. As far as I know, mine was the only class in which they did this. The Psychology department had nothing to do with it and does not condone or cooperate in any political partisanship, nor do I in my courses.

I hope this answers your questions and thank you for your interest.

Best regards,
Liz Russell

Professor Russell,

Thanks for getting back to me.

Can you tell me which student group it was, or perhaps forward on the email in question?

My concern is when people attended that party, they were handed out Zach Brown for HD 63 fliers at the entryway. While I understand you probably didn't have any intention of using class time to have students attend a partisan event, that's what ended up happening.

There were many instances around campus during the 2 weeks before the election where groups used anonymous fliers, postcards etc to get students to go to this event, yet none of them have any return addresses or who was responsible for the invites. If you could forward me on that email I would greatly appreciate it so I can chat with them about why they felt the need to use deceptive tactics on students.

Thanks,

Tim

Hi Tim,

I apologize for the delay in getting back to you. It's been hard to get a hold of people with the holidays and then with finals week. So, what I was able to find out was that the on-campus voting stuff was a collaboration between Forward Montana (non-partisan), Montana Democrats, and College Democrats. (I thought it was just Forward Montana but I was apparently incorrect on that.) However, the democrat info was intentionally left out because the point of the get-out-the-vote stuff was intended to be completely non-partisan and not meant to sway anyone any direction or the other. The party, too, was supposed to be non-partisan, and the person I talked to was unsure of how campaign materials were handed out, but she gave me a contact for someone who may be able to give you more information.

Of course, again, the Psychology department and myself have no partisan stakes and you are absolutely correct that I had no intention of promoting any kind of partisan thing in my class. I apologize for any confusion with this and hopefully this student can give you more clarity on what happened.

The student's name is Justin Ailport, and his e-mail address is: martin.ailport@gmail.com

I hope your holidays are happy and thanks for being in touch about this.

Best regards,
Liz Russell

Justin,

My name is Tim Adams. I was referred to you by Professor Russell, since she said you were head of College Democrats and that you worked with Forward Montana this cycle to put together the Get Out The Vote party on October 30th with Dead Hipster.

Are you the right person? She said she didn't know exactly who the students were who talked to her Psychology classes, but you would know for sure.

Tim,

My apologies for a delayed reply. The GOTV Party that was held on October 30th at the Eagles was sponsored by the Zach Brown for Montana Campaign and the Montana Democratic Legislative Campaign Committee (MDLCC). College Democrats at MSU volunteered to help promote and staff the event.

I have CC'd the campaign team on this email. Zach Brown (Candidate), Abbey Cook (Campaign Manager), Liza Ginnings (MDLCC Campus Coordinator), and Trent Bolger (Democratic Party).

Hopefully, between all of us we can answer any questions you may have.

Happy Holidays,

Tim,

Yes, I was one of the students that spoke in her class. We did not send out postcards inviting people. We returned cards to students that they filled out saying they were pledging to vote. This card acted as their ticket to the event. We did not encourage students to vote for any specific candidate, we merely wanted them to take part in the democratic process.

Justin,

That's odd. I'm enclosing a picture of a postcard me and my roommate got in the mail which advertised the event. I was excited because I've booked Dead Hipster before in Bozeman. When we did the first QSA Rainbow Ball at the Baxter we got them to come over. Was this the same postcard you had people sign to get into the dance?

I was disappointed because when I got to the event downtown, the whole front entrance had a bunch of literature and campaign flyers for Zach. There was a girl at the entrance table giving them to people before they went into the room with the music. I thought it was strange but then when I mentioned it to a friend they said people came into their psychology class and also invited people to the event.

It just felt deceptive because none of the postcards we got had Zach's information or the Democrats information it, and I don't think my friend in the Psychology class got the impression that it wasn't an event where people were going to tell her to vote for Zach. Between the postcards and people talking to classes it seemed like this was planned beforehand.

Maybe in the future put something like "Paid for by..." whoever is doing it. Or maybe not have the flyers at the entrance to the dance.

If you or anyone attached to this email knows who sent the postcards, please let me know. I'd like to just express the same sentiment of being a little more careful or honest when it comes to the campaign stuff.

Thanks,
Tim

Tim,

Thanks for being in touch. If you would like to have a conversation about this in person, I would be happy to meet in person over a cup of coffee on Tuesday the 23rd. I think if you hear about what we did, and what we were trying to do, you wouldn't have much to be frustrated about. It was all pretty harmless. Also, I am the one who personally brought in my campaign fliers. So the issue that you have is with my actions, as far as I can tell.

Please feel free to correspond with me directly on this if you would like to discuss it further. The other folks on this list are all volunteers, and I was the dude who brought my lit into the event - and I am ultimately the candidate.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Zach,

I can't meet today because of the holidays and so I'll be out of the area.

I'm just really more confused upon learning more about this. You are a Democratic candidate running for office. MDLCC is a partisan Democratic campaign organization trying to get Democrats elected. Ditto on the College Democrats. How, exactly, did you think 3 Democratic organizations coming together to throw an event wouldn't be partisan? While I can certainly understand wanting to target younger and college aged voters to get to the polls, I don't understand why you wouldn't just be honest about it. How, exactly, do you target people who are most sympathetic to Democratic candidates with GOTV efforts, but say it's not partisan? It just seems overly disingenuous to say that 3 Democratic organizations are coming together and paying for GOTV efforts purely for civic participation. If the venue, postcards, staff salaries, etc are all coming from Democratic fundraising dollars and you're passing out flyers personally for your campaign, I don't understand how you don't be transparent about your motives. Please explain this.

Tim,

I hope you will understand that I am not interested in getting into a back-and-forth argument with you over email. You make some personal accusations that don't resonate with me, and come off as hostile over an email. However, I hear your fundamental points and appreciate you taking the time to reach out. I will deeply consider your point of view if/when I ever run for office again. For now, my attention is turned to preparing for the quickly approaching Legislative session, so I can serve my district to the absolute best of my ability. I am looking forward, not backwards.

However, as I offered before, if you would like to meet for a cup of coffee or schedule a phone call, I am willing to make either work within my schedule. It would be much more enticing for me to have this conversation in person. (On that note, you should know that I am moving to Helena for the next four months, leaving this coming Saturday. So if you want to meet in person, let's make it happen this week. Otherwise, I am up for a phone call.)

All the best,
Rep. Zach Brown

P.S. To be clear, everything my campaign printed and paid for included "Paid for by Friends of Zach Brown" information. If you saw something that did not include this information, it did not come from me and I can't speak to it. I was very careful to be transparent as you say, as was the Democratic Party, in ever dealing I had with them. You questioned my honesty in your email, but your conclusions don't fit with the person I am and strive to be every day.

Zach,

Did you or Justin produce these flyers that didn't have attribution on them? There were hundreds, if not thousands of them put all over cars in the MSU parking lot the week before this dance. I tried to find out who printed them with no luck. Then they appeared in the Exponent the next week and had obtained an attribution from College Democrats and your campaign. This doesn't quite jive with your "to be clear, everything my campaign printed and paid for included" that you said if your email.

Is someone doing these on your behalf or without your knowledge? The language is almost identical to the postcards inviting people to the GOTV party, which also had no attribution.

Brown, Hagfors

ASUM ballot

Brown, Hagfors removed from ASUM ballot, begin write-in campaign

Amy Sisk | Posted: Friday, April 20, 2012 12:00 am

The Associated Students of the University of Montana voted at an emergency meeting Thursday night to take ASUM presidential candidate Zach Brown and running mate Bryn Hagfors off next week's ballot, but allow them to run as write-in candidates.

The unanimous decision came after seven hours of heated debate and dozens of failed motions in the basement of Main Hall. At times, senators were called out for cussing and heads were buried in hands as the required two-thirds vote stalemated again and again. Brown and Hagfors were banned from speaking, passing notes as the Senate discussed what their "punishment" should be.

Sen. Travis Suzuki, ASUM elections chair, said the candidates violated several student government rules when a friend asked Monte to don his furry suit to campaign with Brown and Hagfors around campus Wednesday. The ASUM elections committee voted Wednesday night to disqualify the candidates. The committee decided other minor violations for incorrect placement of posters by both the Brown-Hagfors and Asa Hohman-Mariah Williams campaign were not worth pursuing as formal infractions.

Suzuki said that because Monte is a trademarked symbol of the University of Montana and UM's athletic department, the bear does not represent the individual who donned the suit. He added that this qualifies Monte as a third party, which ASUM prohibits from giving in-kind contributions to campaigns. The candidates also violated University Center policy, which prohibits soliciting, Suzuki said.

"As candidates running for the highest office, there is no excuse not to know the rules because they will have to live by them if elected," Suzuki said.

When dozens of students showed up to the meeting to challenge the decision, the Senate decided to alter its original plan to ban public comment. In the seven minutes allotted to all the students, they said disqualifying one presidential ticket would effectively leave them with just one choice on the ballot.

Acknowledging the public comments, the Senate decided to not outright disqualify Brown, also a senator, and Hagfors, instead looking for a suitable "punishment." The conditions of that penalty varied throughout the meeting. ASUM bylaws allow the Senate's punishments to include, but aren't limited to, censoring candidates, withholding campaign funds, removing campaign materials such as posters, and disqualifying candidates.

Senators proposed banning Brown and Hagfors from campaigning-including talking to the Kaimin-but allowing them on the ballot. They also proposed, and ultimately voted, to remove them from the ballot but allow them to run a write-in campaign. The Senate also is requiring Brown and Hagfors to list the time with Monte as a $58.33 expense in their $150 campaign budget after Suzuki threatened to take the Senate's decision to the Constitutional Review Board without the provision. This requirement leaves the pair with less than $5 to spend during the remainder of the campaign, Brown said.

A frustrated Sen. Zach Patten suggested ASUM dissolve the elections committee and at one point tried to end the meeting by leaving the room, which would've meant the Senate couldn't reach a decision because the senate wouldn't have had enough members for a legal vote. Hohman resigned from the Senate three hours into the meeting because he felt he and Williams were being punished by the Senate when it decided to not uphold the committee's recommendation to disqualify Brown and Hagfors.

"I have never been so disappointed to see what could be such a great organization be run by a popularity contest," Hohman wrote in his resignation letter. He still is running to be next year's ASUM president.

Brown and Hagfors, too, were upset with the proceedings. They felt that some senators personally attacked them and it was unfair they were banned from defending themselves.

"We had to sit there in silence for six hours while people said things about us that was or was not true," Brown said. "If we made a mistake as the elections committee found, it was an honest one because the elections bylaws are so rag tag."

Hagfors pointed to the words of ASUM's own legal counsel Thursday when she said understanding the bylaws was "like nailing Jello to a wall."

"We're very dissatisfied with the outcome and feel like this is the exact lack of transparency and access we've been running against," Hagfors said.

 This is the second time Brown has been sanctioned by the Elections Committee. When he ran for a Senate seat last spring, he turned in an expense sheet 45 minutes late because he thought the deadline was later in the day. Although he won enough votes to join the Senate, he was disqualified. That Senate debate, too, lasted hours and was only resolved when one senator left the room so it would shift the count to a qualifying two-thirds vote. Brown later applied and was accepted to the Senate after two students stepped down from their positions. Hohman was other senator selected by the senate to fill an opening.

ASUM elections will be held on Cyberbear Wednesday and Thursday.

A new voice for Bozeman.

Montana will always be my home, and I believe in our state's future. I am the son and brother of Bozeman small business owners, and uncle to five nieces and nephews entering the Bozeman public schools. I want to help build a better tomorrow for those kids by serving our community and our state in the Montana Legislature.

As your legislator, I will advocate for:

- Our public lands—Access for hunters, stream access for anglers, clean water and healthy wildlife populations
- Small business owners—I am from a small business family, and I know first-hand the power of the local economy
- Public education—the foundation of our Democracy. Higher pay for teachers, reasonable tuition and less debt for college students
- Energy efficiency—Reducing energy consumption, saving taxpayer dollars, and improving our public facilities.
