Dulcie,

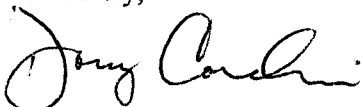

I spoke with you on October 3 regarding an ad I ran in our local newspaper. I received a call from a citizen stating that I did not display my party affiliation on this piece. The party affiliation is indeed located next to the disclaimer.

Via our phone conversation, you indicated that the ad is in compliance with state law. Upon discussing this with our campaign treasurer, he asked that I submit this to you to get a definitive ruling in writing, in the event that someone else calls this piece into question. Upon your review, if you feel the party designation is not adequate, we will stamp the remaining pieces (about 7,000) with a "D" and in a size you deem adequate.

You may email your response to me at: bcdc@digisys.net.

Thank you for your attention to this matter. I look forward to hearing from you in the near future.

Sincerely,

Doug Cordier, Candidate
House District #3

Subject: Your complaint against Douglas Cordier; October 3, 2006

Mr. Jellison, you are correct that Montana law requires a candidate to state their party affiliation or include the party symbol on campaign communications. The requirement is found in MCA § 13-35-225(2) Election materials not to be anonymous.

I have in front of me the advertisement for Cordier for H.D. #3 provided as part of your complaint. It clearly shows the Democrat symbol as part of the "paid for by. . ." attribution. It's small, but legible, and placed where it's fairly easy to find (bottom of the page and set apart from other copy.)

Based on the information presented, Cordier for H.D. #3 is not in violation of the statute. If there has been some misunderstanding, please let me know right away. Otherwise, this complaint will be dismissed.

Re: Cordier Complaint

Enclosed herewith is a complaint regarding a failure to identify party affiliation in campaign material. This may seem like a minor infraction but I believe that it was a deliberate violation committed with the belief that nothing of consequence would happen.

I called Mr. Cordier to inquire about the omission and received the distinct impression that he could care less. When I mentioned that the omission was a violation of a statute he said he would have to call the commissioner as if that would end the matter. I had been told that he is trying to avoid any party affiliation in all of his campaign efforts and I now believe that to be true.

I have been active in political campaigns for many years. We have always tried to comply with the legal requirements. When someone has violated the law, I have complained in the belief that if we ignore the small violations, we invite bigger violations.

Sincerely,

M. Dean Jellison

My Commission Expires: 3-2-2007

Douglas Cordier is a Democrat candidate for House District 3 which is in the area of Columbia Falls, Flathead County. He prepared and caused to be distributed with the September 28, 2006, edition of the Hungry Horse News a four page insert promoting his candidacy. Nowhere in the four pages is there a mention of the Democrat Party or an image of a party symbol. Hungry Horse News is the newspaper published in Columbia Falls.

Complainant is informed and believes that Cordier has been warned about his failure to comply with the law in earlier material and has not heeded the warnings, indicating that this instance is not a mere oversight.

Sec. 13-35-225 MCA is violated by the above conduct in that the material fails to "state the candidate's party affiliation or include the party symbol". Sec. 13-35-103 MCA provides that such a violation is a misdemeanor. Sec. 13-35-107 MCA provides that a court may void an election affected by a violation.

Attached is an original sample of the ad in question.
